TRUMAN HAS "GOOD NIGHT" REPORT SAYS

"Greatest Show on Earth" To Arrive in Town Early Friday For Two Performances Here *

Red Cross Will Be On Hand at Circus

Warren County Chapter, American Red Cross, will have a first aid room in the office at the hanger at Warren Airport from 1 p.m. Friday until after the matinee, then from 7 p.m. until after the evening performance. With the Airport being the most congested center of population in northwestern Pennsylvania tomorrow afternoon and evening, it was felt a great need existed for this service. A telephone was installed today and the number is 584. Warren county physicians are urgently requested to list their seat numbers at the Red Cross room on their way into the circus. Peterson's ambulance will stand by, afternoon and evening, in case of an emergency.

Mrs. Truman was on her way to Washington. She is expected to visit her husband at the hospital presidential suite after her arrival. No appointments were set up for the President today. This seems to rule out any possibility that he will confer today with Thomas J. Gavin of Kansas City, the man who will cast Truman's ballot at the Democratic National Convention next week.

Short said he sees no prospect of any personal get-together between Truman and Gavin.

Short said that Truman's physician, Maj. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, expects the President's temperature "may go up a teeny, little bit" again this afternoon, as it has been doing since Sunday. Truman had no fever this morning.

And, Short added:

"The President expects to be back in the White House by Saturday."

Short emphasized again that the President went to the hospital not because of his illness but to facilitate running the medical tests Dr. Graham wanted to make.

It was the 68-year-old President's first hospitalization since he entered the White House April 12, 1945.

Air War Is Halted By Dismal Weather

Seoul, Korea (AP) — Dismal weather blotted out the Korean air war today after American fliers reported shooting down one of the best Communist jet pilots they have met.

Fast U.S. Sabre jets were challenged in three dogfights over North Korea late Wednesday by a flight of 50 Russian-built MiGs, described as "the cream of the crop."

"The best MiG pilots I have seen up there yet," said Capt. Arthur H. McCarthy, Dearborn, Mich., who was credited with destroying one of the Red jets—his first. U.S. losses, if any, were not reported.

MAJOR DEAN MOVED TO A NEW WAR CAMP

Munsan, Korea (AP) — The Communists today said they have moved their captive, U. S. Maj. Gen. William F. Dean, from a prisoner of war camp at the bomb-shattered capital of Pyongyang to another camp in North Korea but did not give his new location.

The disclosure came in an exchange of letters by liaison officers of the United Nations Command and Communist truce teams at Panmunjom.

The Allied communications demanded an accounting of 1,881 missing U. N. soldiers believed in Communist stockades. The U. N. Command said it has been making the request since December with "totally unsatisfactory" results.

THREE TO LEAVE FOR INDUCTION JULY 23RD

Announcement was made today by Melvin G. Keller, selective service chairman for Warren county, that the following young men have been named for actual induction into the Armed Forces in Harrisburg, July 23:

David Mitchell Brown, Charles E. Church and Kenneth E. Bengtson, all of Warren.

The trio will leave Warren by Pullman at 9:05 p.m., EDT, on Tuesday, July 22.

No call has been received for a July contingent of young men for pre-physical examinations.

RED PEACE RALLY

Tokyo (AP) — Sixteen police were injured Wednesday when Communist demonstrators clashed with police at a Red peace rally in Nara, near the ancient capital of Kyoto.

183 ARE HURT WHEN SUBWAY TRAINS BUMP

New York (AP) — Two subway trains crowded with 2,500 perspiring passengers bumped at a station during the rush hour yesterday afternoon, pitching hundreds into tangles on the floor.

Police said today that 183 persons had reported injuries—most of them minor—in the collision and near-panic which followed.

Interesting Horse and Pony Parade Is Staged as Feature of Russell Gala Days

Russell-No-Bar Riding Club members, clad in gay red shirts, copped two of the special prizes awarded for last night's Horse and Pony Parade, feature of the Gala Days being sponsored this week by the Russell Volunteer Fire Company.

The No-Bars received prizes as the largest group and for traveling the greatest distance; Chautauqua Trail Riders, in yellow shirts, were judged the best appearing unit; and Theo Rickerson, Russell-Lander road, won a prize for the best appearing team in harness.

There were approximately 20 members in each of the visiting groups and a large representation of Y-Bar-U members from Russell and North Warren, although this latter unit was not entered in the competition.

Judges were Ed Barrett, of Russell; Jim Miller, North Warren, and Warren Gilson, Warren.

Charlie Miller led the parade, with the flag, and the Russell Firemen's Band attracted attention in farmer-style attire, escorted by team and hayrack.

Concluding the week's events, fire companies throughout the section will compete for prizes in the parade at 7:00 p.m. Saturday, these details to be announced tomorrow.

VET ARRESTED FOR SLAYING OF SECRETARY

New York (AP) — An Air Force veteran obsessed with a theory for prolonging life was brought back in handcuffs today to New York where he says he killed a blonde he didn't even know on the Columbia University campus.

Bayard P. Peakes, 30, strode off a train from Boston appearing almost to drag a detective to whom he was handcuffed.

He was brought back here after confessing orally in Boston to killing pretty, blonde Eileen Fahey, 18 last Monday. Police rushed him to the district attorney's office.

Boston police said Peakes, who had been given a mental discharge from the Air Force told them he just "wanted to kill someone" because of an academic fall-out.

FEW TICKETS REMAIN

Warren residents were still able today to buy tickets for the circus at the booth in Kinnear's store, 225 Liberty street. Kenneth Gwinnett of the circus staff, will keep the booth open until 9 o'clock tonight. Matinee tickets will be available at the booth until 11 a.m. Friday, then at the circus itself. Tickets for the evening performance will be available all afternoon at the circus and at the Kinnear store booth until 5 p.m. when all tickets will be removed to the circus ticket office.

Not even the day before Easter and its fashion parade has the weather prediction for Warren and vicinity been of more general interest. The Associated Press (and it better not be wrong!) has said there will be warm and humid weather tomorrow, but no rain until late evening when scattered thundershowers are expected.

Coming here from Olean, the circus is due to start rolling into the peaceful environs of Warren early Friday morning. The first train, containing 22 cars, is expected about 2 a.m., and will include the food department which in itself occupies seven cars. About 1,400 circus personnel must be fed. This train also carries cages, stock cars and three Pullmans.

The second train, of 28 cars, will arrive about two hours later, bringing the lighting system, wagons, elephant cages and more Pullmans. The third train will carry more cars for equipment, more animals and eight Pullmans. The great tent, known to all as "the big top," will arrive on the second train. Unloading, which will be on the South Side in the vicinity of Main and Mohawk, will start about 4 a.m.

Headed by L. D. "Doc" Hall, the Big Show's 24-hour men are busy here today making last minute arrangements for arrival of the show and its deployment. These field agents are checking the crossings and sidings of the Pennsylvania railroad where the long steel trains will be unloaded. They have been assured by Police Chief Mike Evans that the streets to the Warren Airport will be clear for the red wagons, the elephants, horses, wild animal pens and the air-conditioned cage housing Gar-gantua I and Mile Toto. Advocates of Civil Rights Plugging For Strong Dem Plank

Chicago (AP) — Union labor and Negro leaders called today on Democratic platform drafters for assurances that civil rights pledges will be carried out, once they are written.

Advocates of a civil rights plank "at least as strong" as that in the 1948 Democratic platform complained to newsmen that the party had not made good on its promises of four years ago.

James B. Carey, secretary-treasurer of the CIO, said, "We're not going to be satisfied with a promise like we got from the 1948 convention—we want performance."

A renewal of the red-hot scrap between Northern and Southern Democrats on the civil rights issue is shaping up.

But it is too early to tell whether feeling will mount as high as it did at the Philadelphia convention in 1948.

The Dixie contingent this year is hopeful of achieving a compromise—something short of the federal fair employment practices commission (FEPC) with enforcement powers recommended in the '48 platform.

HUCKS STILL ACTIVE

Manila (AP) — The number of persons killed this year in clashes between Huks and civilians or troops rose to 755 today with eight new deaths.

Boston Police Capt. Francis Wilson said Peakes told of purchasing a .22 caliber pistol last June "with the intent of shooting someone" in the American Physical Society because that organization had turned down his thesis on the theory of life.

Peakes, a Boston packinghouse worker, was arrested early today in Boston. He is the son of a retired Dover-Foxcroft, Me., lumber dealer.

Miss Fahey, a bookkeeper, was shot to death at her desk in the American Physical Society office on the campus as she read the first of three letters she had received earlier that day from Pfc. Ronald Leo of the First Marine Division in Korea.

Leo, granted a 30-day leave, is flying here to attend Miss Fahey's funeral Saturday.

SEABOARD IS STILL IN GRIP OF HOT WAVE

By The Associated Press

Sun-baked areas from the Rockies to the Eastern Seaboard were experiencing another day of heat and humid weather.

Showers brought temporary relief to some areas in the swelter belt. Cooler air moved into the New England region, upper New York State and the Dakotas.

But it looked like another day of muggy weather for wide areas in the Midwest, South and East. Temperatures climbed into the 90s again yesterday, with some cities reporting record readings for the day.

Squalls continued in the northwest Gulf of Mexico, with showers over wide sections of the coast.

High tides were reported from Mobile, Ala., to Galveston, Tex. More than nine inches of rain fell in Lake Charles, La., the heaviest fall along the coast. About 50 families were evacuated from a flooded subdivision near Lake Charles.

Generally fair weather prevailed in the far West, and it continued hot in the far Southwest.

It's only an "amateur heat wave" that's affecting Pennsylvania now, according to Philadelphia's weather man. Any citizen who thinks it's just plain hot, disbelieves.

Today marked the sixth consecutive day for temperatures around 90 and above. But the weatherman recalled that Pennsylvania sweltered for 12 successive days of 90 degree heat and hotter, between June 26 and July 6, 1901.

So far the "amateur heat wave" has caused four deaths, through heat prostration. Two died in Philadelphia, one in Chester and another in Bristol.

The present high temperatures are expected to end around Saturday, the weatherman said. Some relief in the form of partly cloudy weather reached parts of both eastern and western Pennsylvania today with a few scattered thundershowers.

Rain started at 3:55 p.m. and continued intermittently until 9:05 last night, brought some relief to the Philadelphia area.

The craft were both airborne in good weather. First aloft was the "Pop-A-Long," piloted by Capt. Vincent McGovern. The "Whirl-a-Way" was hoisted up quickly afterward by Lt. Harold W. Moore.

NEW HOT ROD GIMMICK

Corry Journal: Hot rodders in this section have come up with a new gimmick which has caught the unfavorable eye of State Police. Adopting part of the theory of the "after-burner" on jet planes, the youths have inserted a spark plug into the tail pipe of their cars near the end where it extends from under the auto. The plug is then connected with a wire from the tail light with the current from it furnishing a spark which ignites exhaust gases as they pour out of the exhaust. The end result is a stream of fire flashing out of the exhaust, creating a brilliant picture, especially at night, but adding nothing to the running performance of the vehicle. Officers at the local sub-station said they have had reports on the vehicles and are including them in a drive which is on against excessive noise created by defective mufflers.

DESERTED CITY—A lone woman walks across one of Rome's main thoroughfares without worrying a bit about the usually teeming traffic. The reason for the wide open spaces is a terrific heat wave that caused Rome to be a "deserted city" as Romans stayed indoors or flocked to seaside resorts to escape the city's oven-like heat.

Strange Passage

By William Lynch

Chapter 31

The beam of light streaked down again and spotlighted his passage up the farther slope, following with ease, sometimes anticipating a maneuver to avoid an obstacle, but returning always to its point of focus, the struggling, cursing, sweating figure that half-climbed, half-fought its way towards the summit.

The searchlight stayed with him until he breasted the surface and disappeared into the shoulder-high shrubs that lined the adjacent roadway. Then it snapped off with an air of finality and a sickly moon picked up the fleeing figure as it moved along the road, towards Thirteen Grover Street.

He forced a rear window of the house and felt his way through the darkness of the lower floor room to the narrow staircase. He found his way without difficulty into the studio. Through the uncovered window panes the moon threw its pale light across the room and into the mirror of the dressing table.

He strode to the dressing table and reached for the drawer. His fingers felt into the farther right corner and fastened upon an automatic pistol. Bringing it forth, he felt with the heel of his hand the magazine. Then he shifted the safety catch and with his thumb pulled back the hammer until it gripped after the second click.

Instinctively, he closed the drawer and glanced up into the darkness of Grover Street.

He fell back as the dulled features of Kate stared out at him from the mirror, and raised the pistol, but did not fire it.

It was an illusion, like the rest of it! Like there being no rotting carcass at the bottom of Wade's Hole. Like his marriage to Melisande and the menace of the ubiquitous Danny. It was an illusion of the mind, all of it, and this was his studio in Grover Street and this of seeing Kate in the mirror was the result of a disordered imagination.

But he was suddenly strong and in his hands here was the fixed. Paul's dead. Kate's plea of self-defense lets her out—she proved your point—and all Danny's got to worry about is dying of cancer in two year's time. I'm on my way home and everything's fine."

"You're bitter, aren't you?"

The train whistle blew its first warning.

"I'm a little disappointed with you scientists, that's all. You had to wait until Paul tried to kill somebody before you discovered he was mad—then you hounded him to his death. It's a funny business."

"Killing's not very funny, Melisande."

The train began to move slowly away. Taylor walked along beside the window.

"I knew he was mad the day I married him," Melisande said.

"Then why did you do it?"

"I won't know that until I get back home. Maybe I won't know until I have a few bazaar afternoons with the Vicar. But when I do find out, John, I'll write you a letter about it—for use in your next text-book."

She was shouting, now, from some distance.

"It's been nice knowing you. But—you should've been an artist."

John Taylor stood at the end of the platform, waving, until the train vanished round a curve. He strolled slowly down the length of the platform, his mind thoughtfully preoccupied with the proposition that the children of the vicarage should associate only with God and the church committee, and the children of the streets with the devils of their own creation—and any deviation from this principle should rightfully bring forth the same consternation as that registered by a forlorn hen when it suddenly sees a portion of its brood nonchalantly taking to a mud pool.

The simile pleased him and he was resolved to write Melisande that very night and tell her about it. Better still, he would telephone her. Or maybe he would take the week-end excursion train—

YOUR PUBLIC LIBRARY

References to the annual meeting of the Warren Library Association in news columns yesterday and today recall to mind one portion of the librarian's report that we believe comes under the heading of "very vital statistics" and we give you her exact words: "One of the rather certain possibilities for the Library is that the building is going to suffer damage that will be both EXTENSIVE and EXPENSIVE if repair work is not started soon."

Nine out of ten people in Warren take their library entirely for granted, contributing nothing to its upkeep or development—and yet its circulation figures show 47.48% of the population in the registered borrowers' list and 16.26 volumes the average loan to each resident. Surely there are many persons in the community who will rally 'round with material aid for the institution if they but realize the situation which faces the board and the necessity for action.

Continuing with "possibilities," Mrs. Lopez had this to say: "In the first place, the founders of this library anticipated expansion. There is a staircase to a mezzanine level, with outlets for stack lights. A wire and glass covering could be put over the first floor stacks to form this mezzanine level. The mezzanine would not extend beyond the stack, but would end in a grill work in line with first floor stacks. This level could be used for storing of back issues of magazines and special seasonal collections—such as the Christmas and holiday material—now kept in the basement."

The main floor of the basement could be divided by a glass brick wall, with half of it for the use of a county library, the other half to be the children's room. The county library section could be arranged in such a way that the room could continue to be used for meetings. The present children's room would be used for a much needed and very important young people's department. Also, fluorescent lighting should be installed in all the stacks and in the Wetmore gallery.

"All this is in line with the thought that books and other sources of information have increased in volume and use since the beginning of communication and there is no reason to believe they will not continue to increase."

NATIONAL LOST SLEEP WEEK'

Does anybody ever try to calculate the man-hours lost during the week of a national convention? With television distracting the hired help all across the country, the bill in wasted time must be stupendous.

Things were particularly bad in the GOP show this year, since TV cameras peered every place but into hotel boudoirs and blanketed the channels at all hours with convention stuff. To make it worse, the week before the convention was almost as hot as the thing itself.

Then, too, those fellows who like to dedicate the various weeks of the year to all kinds of causes seem to be overlooking a bit. How about "National Lost Sleep Week?"

During the Republican conclave a man got to bed so late that he was in no shape to pull out in the morning and rush downtown to turn on the office set for the day sessions.

COMPANY'S COMING

It's going to be just like a convention in Warren tomorrow!

And, just like any other efficient housewife, Warren is ready for its guests. Not only will there be 1,400 circus people in town for the day, but other thousands will come from neighboring cities.

Warren Borough employees have put the Airport grounds in perfect condition, streets are clean, and everything is tidy. The Airport itself is a beautiful sight, all ready for the pitching of the "big top" and 41 other tent as well. Its greensward has been closely cropped, and it looks like a park.

Congratulations to all those who have done such a fine job of tidying up and making ready for "company" and praise be to Chief of Police Mike Evan for all he's done to protect everyone from danger.

Girls, says a pastor, shouldn't marry men just because they're head-over-heels in love. It's wise to wait until they get back on their feet.

Now It's the Donkey's Turn to Apply the HeatHere And There

The other day we printed a "schedule at a glance" for the visit of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus on its visit to Warren July 2, 1927. It proved interesting to many, especially among the older readers who recalled the memorable visit, some of whom witnessed the show and will see it again tomorrow for the first time in 25 years. Today, through the courtesy of one of the very capable and interesting advance men who have visited the office in the past few weeks in connection with tomorrow's big event, we give you a "circus at a glance" for the greatest show on earth on its visit to Warren Friday, July 18, 1952.

Arrival—The Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Circus, traveling on its own long trains of double-length steel cars, is due in Warren early Friday morning, coming from Olean, over the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Unload—Main avenue crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad, south side.

Show Grounds—The Municipal airport.

EDSON IN CHICAGOLoser Taft Might Be Winner, If Old Guard Blocks 'Crusade'BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

CHICAGO—(NEA)—A breath of fresh political air swept through the stockyards amphitheater here when Dwight Eisenhower was nominated as Republican candidate for the presidency. When it was all over on the first ballot, the GOP's southern organizations and the Old Guard locked to be on the skids.

The trouble is that in the last three Republican conventions, the Old Guard was handed similar defeats. Twice by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, once by Wendell Willkie of Indiana and "Wall Street." And when these candidates were defeated, the Old Guard serenely moved back into place and took over control of the Republican party machinery again.

The only sensible course now being recommended to the Old Guard is to join what Mr. Eisenhower calls his new "great crusade." The alternative is to go on in a corner and sulk, continue its mad, take no part in the campaign, not vote—and to give the presidency to the Democrats again by default in November.

Some of Senator Taft's loyal, hard corps of die-hard delegates, as they left Chicago, were threatening "to take a good look at the candidate to be chosen by the Democrats" here in Chicago soon.

The prospect of Senators Taft, Dirksen, Bricker, Cain, McCarthy and Representatives Clarence Brown of Ohio or Carroll Reece of Tennessee ever voting Democratic is impossible to conceive. What this group could become, however, in case General Eisenhower should win the election, is a hard core of "Northern Dixiecrats" for lack of a better name.

They would be the opposition, within the party, to the "program of progressive policies" which General Eisenhower called for in his speech accepting the nomination. This Republican opposition, voting with the Democrats, could completely stymie the Eisenhower program.

In such an effort, Senator Taft, the loser at Chicago, might become the winner.

In the last hours of the Republican convention, Rep. Walter Judd of Minnesota tried hard to make Senator Taft the vice-presidential candidate. General Eisenhower apparently turned it down. And Senator Taft also turned it down.

INSTEAD, General Eisenhower chose as his running mate young Sen. Richard Nixon of California. The general congratulated the convention on this choice. But it was his idea.

The convention would probably never have thought of Senator Nixon if it had been left to its own strange devices. While Senator Nixon is generally regarded as a nice young guy, it is the opinion of many political observers that he does not strengthen the ticket.

Senator Nixon was picked because the general regarded him as a symbol behind which the young folks could be recruited into the Republican party, as replacements for the Old Guard.

The most important postscript on the Republican convention is that, a week before, Senator Taft had the presidential nomination easily within his grasp. He lost it through a series of blunders in the convention by his own generals, principally David S. Ingalls, his cousin and campaign manager.

The intense "hate Dewey" campaign which the Taft organization launched in the last hours of the convention backfired completely. If there is any rift left in the Republican ranks that needs healing, it is this hatred of Governor Dewey which has now been implanted so firmly in the Midwestern mind.

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington (AP)—One of the old ideas is to settle for a simple answer as the only answer to a complex problem. It has been used in explaining Gen. Eisenhower's victory. But there were more factors than one at work in Chicago.

For example, it has been said Eisenhower's win was the triumph of the internationalist over the isolationist wing of the Republican party. Isolationism versus internationalism was certainly an element in the delegates' thinking, it surely not the only one.

Although Sen. Taft denies being an isolationist, some of his support was, if the word has any meaning.

But isolationism vs. internationalism is not new: Every Republican convention from 1940 on has chosen an internationalist to head its party ticket.

It has been said flatly that Eisenhower's victory was the triumph of the younger wing of the party over the Old Guard. At Chicago it was. Whether it's permanent or will be shown in Congress next year if the Republicans win a majority of the seats.

But there were other, and important, forces working in Chicago: a large chunk of personal self-interest among the delegates themselves; morality; some smart political tactics and some wretchedness.

ed ones; perhaps some symbolism; and faith; and hate.

It is possible a majority of the 1,206 delegates actually preferred Taft, he has been a longtime party faithful to Eisenhower, who is a Johnny-come-lately in Republican politics, because a majority may have felt closer to the senator's thinking than to the general's.

But for many of the delegates those holding city or state offices or looking for them this year there was a practical problem: which, Taft or Eisenhower, seemed to have the better chance of winning in November. The answer was important to the delegates with a stake in jobs, for a Republican sweep would carry them in. A Democratic sweep might knock them out.

And, the public opinion polls, plus Eisenhower's showing in the primaries, indicated he had a lively chance of winning. So it's possible a lot of delegates who may have preferred Taft, personally, voted for Eisenhower.

Orchardgrass Popular
For Pasture Hay and Silage

Orchardgrass is just now coming to occupy the place among leading forage grasses that it truly deserves. It is only in recent years that its potentialities have come to be recognized especially as a pasture crop. Its utilization in the United States has trebled in the last 15 years. Seed production during that period has increased from 3.5 million to over 10 million pounds a year.

The demand for taller and more rapidly growing grasses in grass and agriculture has brought out the importance of orchardgrass. Its toughness, leadiness and ability to stand relatively poor soil and climatic conditions in the humid temperature regions of the United States are widely known. It responds favorably to nitrogen fertilization in both forage and seed production.

When properly managed, orchardgrass has many fine qualities, but unless good practices are followed these fine qualities are lost. During the past 10 years, much of the former doubt about it has been overcome and its merits have been recognized.

Orchardgrass is a long-lived perennial. Its typical bunch-type of growth produces no stolons, hence it never forms a complete sod as does bromegrass. It produces an abundance of roots. Its tendency to form coarse bunches is one objection which should be of no consequence because this factor can be assuaged by careful grazing management and by sowing it with a legume such as red clover, Ladino clover, alfalfa or lespedeza.

Good results have been obtained with an orchardgrass-Korean lespedeza combination in those regions where this kind of lespedeza is adapted. Both the grass and the legume thrive on soils of medium texture, though both of them respond to fertilizer. Both plants thrive during the summer months and thus extend the pasture season a land that would not maintain a growth of clover or alfalfa.

Orchardgrass is better adapted and more productive in the southern range of the timothy-growing region than either timothy or

ORCHARDGRASS HIGHLIGHTS

1. Orchardgrass is used in pasture mixtures on poor or fertile soils wherever adapted.
2. Orchardgrass is acid-tolerant and can be used on soils where bluegrass and other grasses do not thrive.
3. For shaded locations orchardgrass is superior to most common grasses.
4. Orchardgrass is a many-purpose grass. It is useful for hay, silage, pasture and erosion control.
5. Most other grasses and legumes are suitable in pasture combinations with orchardgrass.
6. Orchardgrass is long-lived. Established plants in adapted areas may live 8 years or longer.
7. Orchardgrass should be grazed or cut when young and not allowed to become coarse, tough and unpalatable.
8. Liberal applications of nitrogen fertilizer to orchardgrass discourage weeds and increase yields of forage, seed, and protein content of hay.

Edinboro Workshops for PTA Leaders Will Prove Helpful in All Local Units

The PTA summer session held at Edinboro, with an attendance of over 200, proved very successful and inspirational, according to local representatives participating. Upon arrival, delegates were assigned to groups, all covering the same material excepting workshops for district and council workers. Sections listed were parliamentary procedure; publications; National PTA publicity techniques; the PTA organization, its functions, policies, objectives; and program planning.

Continuity was observed in the whole program, with no repetition, and choice of several works for all delegates. General discussion periods disclosed keen interest on the part of all concerned and the desire to know more about this great venture between parent and teacher in the interests of all children everywhere.

The big question: "What has your PTA done this year to promote better relations between home and school?" was only part of one general assembly discussion. These sessions were devoted to techniques in presenting programs for parent education and topics for discussion included the PTA Objects:

- To promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, church and community.
- To raise the standards of home life.
- To secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children and youth.
- To bring into relationship the home and the school, that parents may cooperate intelligently in the training of the child.
- To develop between education and the general public such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental, social and spiritual education.

Views of interest and value were exchanged and each delegate presented an outstanding achievement of his local or council. These Members of the Warren County Council of Republican Women enjoyed a picnic at Island Park in Youngsville Wednesday evening, highlighted with dinner served at 6:30 o'clock by a committee headed by Mrs. Gurney Ball and Mrs. Gilbert Sanford.

Charles Tranter, representative of the Young Republican organization, was present to give a very interesting talk on highlights of the recent Republican convention.

There was a brief business session, at which time it was decided to accept the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Gurney Ball, to be guests at their camp near Garland, for the August meeting, the regular night, the second Thursday in the month, for a tureen supper at 6:30 o'clock.

Foreign Student Visitor

Marge Schmitz, second of the two foreign students who are visiting in Warren homes this summer through the cooperation of the Women's Club and other civic-minded organizations, arrived in Warren Tuesday evening. A tall, slender young lady with fair skin and light brown curling hair, Miss Schmitz comes from the city of Hanover in Germany. She is a student at the University of Bonn, where she is working for her degree in chemical engineering—a most unusual vocation for a German woman.

During an interview Wednesday, Miss Schmitz said she is particularly appreciative of winning this trip to America, since she has been very active in the International Social Studies Club at Bonn. Her command of English is remarkably good considering the fact that, in addition to grammar school studies, she learned it mostly through a five-weeks' visit to England. She has had an opportunity to visit in Lapland and also to be one of a group of students from 11 nations who attended an International Work Camp near Stockholm.

Marge is visiting, for her first week in Warren, at the home of a couple who recently moved here from Germany, Mr. and Mrs. Broell, East street. Anyone wishing to interview her or to arrange speaking engagements may call Mrs. James Conner, 1893, or 6359-J-1.

Parade Will Climax Sheffield Old Home Week Celebration

Sponsored jointly by the Sheffield Post VFW and the Sheffield Volunteer Fire Department, the fifth annual Old Home Week in that community has kept things moving since Monday evening when the celebration got under way with a fireworks display.

Tuesday evening, a field day was held with a full range of athletic events on the schedule.

Wednesday evening, the youngsters' madri gras was sponsored by the VFW auxiliary and included a parade with prizes for the most patriotic, the funniest, the prettiest, the ugliest and the most original costumes.

Madri gras for the oldsters will take place this evening at seven o'clock when mummers will assemble at the McMillen Builders Supply and parade around the loop, up Main street and down Horton avenue, disbanding at the show grounds. Three prizes of $5 each will be awarded.

Friday evening, additional firework displays are promised, and on Saturday afternoon, the children of the Ruth M. Smith Home will be guests of the show, treated to free rides.

The affair will climax Saturday evening with the big parade. Special O'Connor, parade chairman, has received word from several out-of-town marching bands and drum corps who will be in the line of march. Following the parade the "grand finale" will take place at the show grounds.

"Greatest Show on Earth" To Arrive in Town Early attraction in circus history.

The route is carefully plotted for 276 heavy vehicles will roll over it, including the great portable, all-steel grandstand trucks. No parking will be permitted on Hickory street bridge from tonight until after the circus has unloaded late Friday. Leading to the Airport, Ludlow street will be one-way south, Wetmore and Struthers streets will be one-way north.

The advance men completed today the laying-out of the wonderful field at the Airport, and proclaimed it the best they have ever seen. Under Park Commissioner Gilbert H. "Jimmy" Reier, the Airport presents almost a picturesque appearance, it is so perfectly groomed. Borough Manager L. M. McConnell highly praised Mr. Reier and his men today for their marvelous accomplishment. The Airport looks like a lawn in front of a Maryland plantation house.

Near the Airport, at Wetmore and Allegheny, two large parking lots, capable of accommodating almost 2,000 cars, will be operated by the Jaycees under Parking Chairman Bob Johnson, and these too are in fine condition.

The doors at the circus will open at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m.

At the Airport, Warren folk will not only see the big top reach for the sky, but there are 41 other tents to spot, as well as areas for many thoroughfares and alleys behind the scene in the circus community.

Today the busy agents must also expedite deliveries of all supplies, fuel oil, stock feed, fruits, bread, meats, vegetables, eggs and milk. They must be on the lot early tomorrow and ready for the cookhouse and dining department, which will feed some 1,400 people, and is the first unit to arrive and get going. Such items as hay, grain, straw, smithy coal, coke, etc., are to be delivered today, but the bulk of the supplies will be delivered at daybreak tomorrow. These are contracted ahead by the advance agents and are purchased in Warren and other cities played, day by day.

The trek from Olean is not a long one, so the big show is expected to unload here on time. It was a long haul from Williamsport to Olean last night and the train did not arrive in Olean this morning until 7:45, with the other two trains following an hour behind.

Chief of Police Mike Evan has completed working orders for his police staff which will put a man at every strategic point. His plans call for the most efficient protection. Warren possibly could have, and members of the Chautauqua county mounted police will be here to help.

NOTICE
Dr. Thompson's office will be closed Friday.

Court Deliberates Sentence on Sarver

Harrisburg (AP)—The Dauphin County Court was asked today to find 14-year-old John C. Sarver 2nd, guilty of voluntary manslaughter in the rifle-machete slaying of a chum, Kenneth E. Teacher, Jr., 13.

The Sarver youth has pleaded guilty to a general charge of murder and the court heard testimony to determine the degree of guilt. The penalty for voluntary manslaughter is six to 12 years in prison.

Solomon Hurwitz, attorney for the youth, told the court that Sarver was guilty only of the element of "wilful" murder when he cut across Teacher's abdomen with a machete to cover up a bullet wound from accidental discharge of a rifle during target practice.

Hurwitz said that other factors in murder of "deliberate, premeditation with intent to kill with malice" were lacking in the case.

District Attorney Huette F. Dowling told a reporter that he would press for a verdict of second degree murder, carrying a penalty of 10 to 20 years.

Suspect Taken In Johnsonburg Case

New York (AP)—A 25-year-old Brooklyn man was arrested after a police and FBI chase early today and held for the robbery of a Johnsonburg, Pa., bank.

He was identified as Vito Rosello, the last of five men sought in the $7,000 bank holdup last Feb. 15.

With him was 19-year-old Vito Pirone of Brooklyn, who was booked on a charge of helping Rosello evade the law.

The FBI, working with Brooklyn police, had been seeking Rosello for weeks. He was spotted early today in a car on a Brooklyn street. As agents and police in another car closed in, Rosello drove away. After a chase of several miles, he was overtaken and seized. No shots were fired.

NEW HAY FEVER DRUG OFFERS SOME RELIEF

Philadelphia (AP)—A new drug bringing greater relief to hay fever sufferers is available throughout the country for the coming ragweed season.

Phenergan hydrochloride, originally developed in France and produced here by Wyeth, Inc., a Philadelphia pharmaceutical house, has been reported "far superior to those obtained with any other anti-histamine agent."

Dr. N. E. Silber, of Lynn, Mass., who tested the drug under clinical observation, said there was a favorable response within half an hour in 98 cases out of 102.

His clinical report, which appeared in the May-June issue of Annals of Allergy, noted that results varied from "dramatic, excellent, or good" in 90 of the cases, to fair results for four of the patients and "questionable or no relief" for the remaining eight.

Began as a community effort, it has mushroomed into a state project with the blessings of Gov. Frederick Payne, to help the Pinkhams raise Maine's only living quads in proper surroundings.

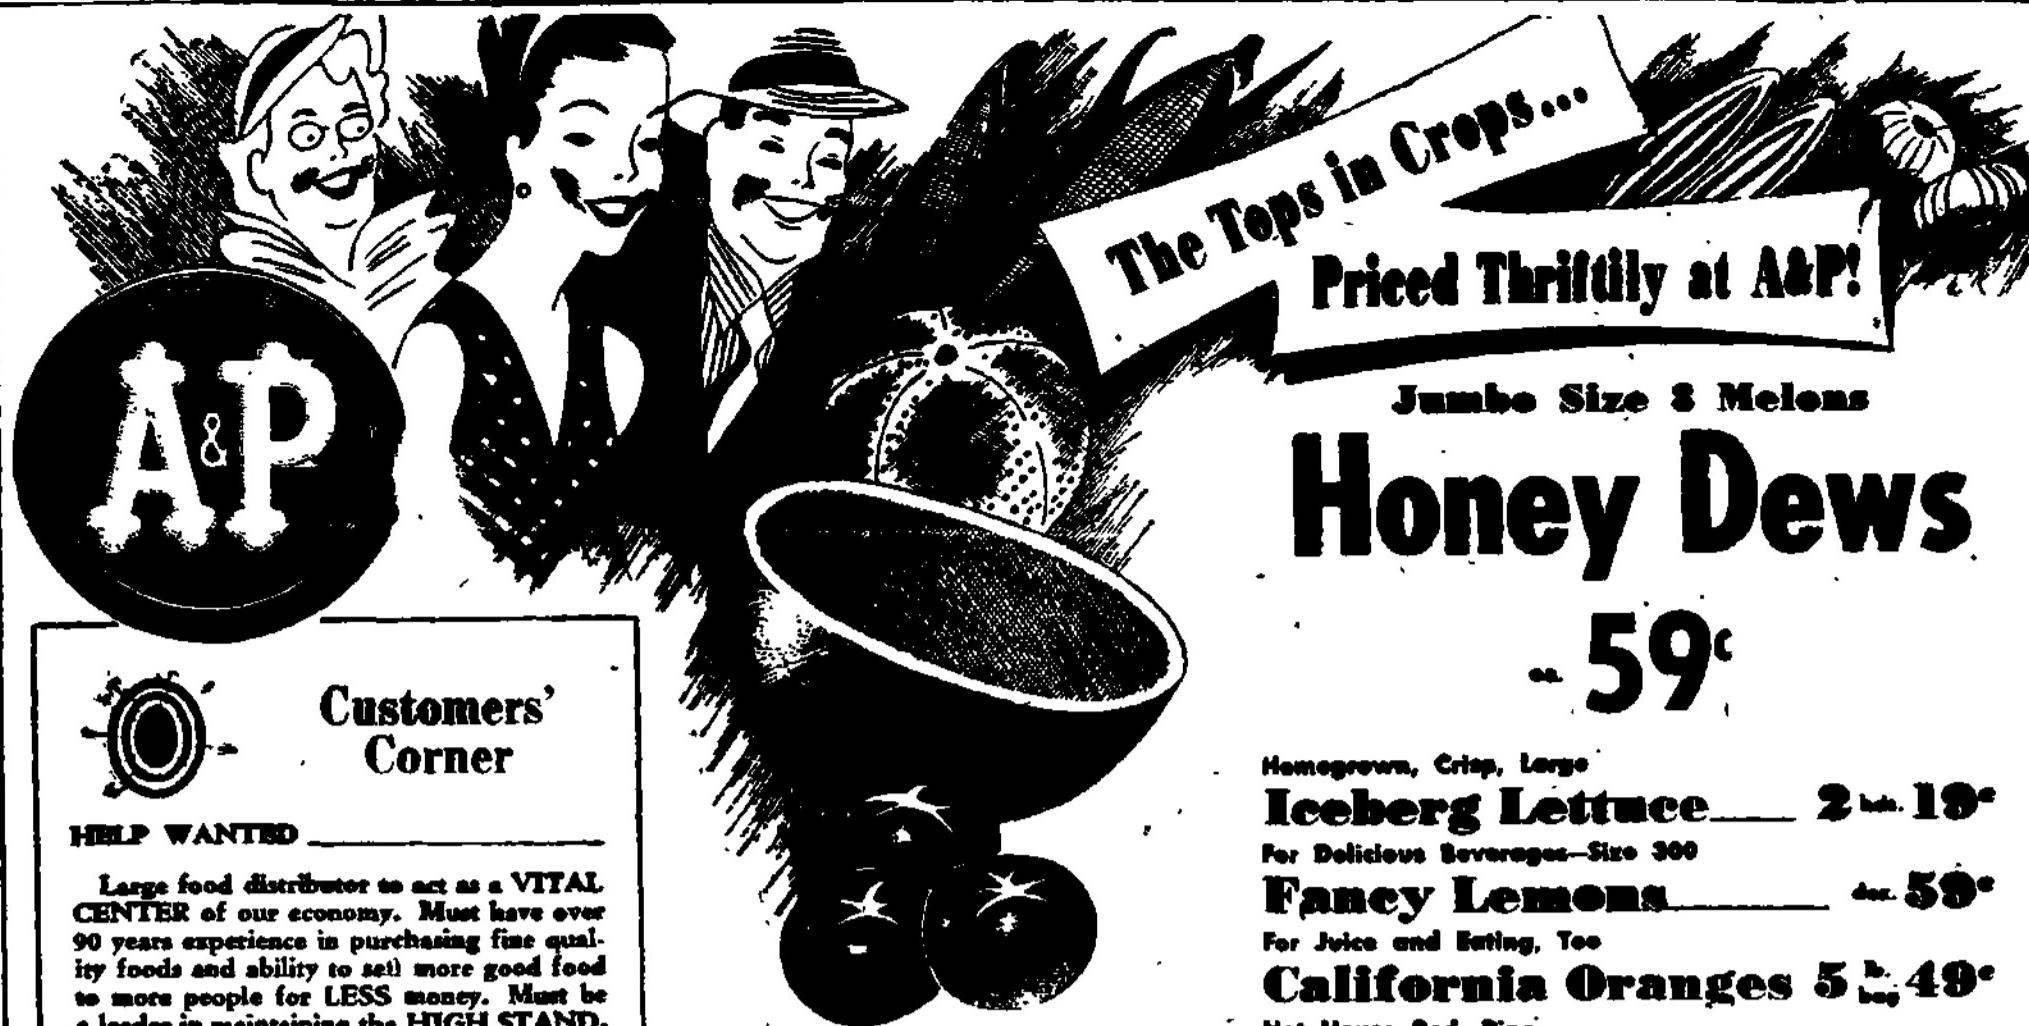

The move got under way when the newcomers threatened to crowd their parents from their two-room cottage.

Information in Annual Report Reveals Library One of the Busiest Spots in the Borough

Excerpts from the annual report of Librarian Jeanne B. Lopez, as presented before the 1952 business session of the Warren Library Association, show the library is one of the busiest spots in town, even during the summer vacation period.

The year 1951-52 has been marked by a number of "firsts". Mrs. Lopez points out. For the first time, the library has a microfilm reader, with 55 years of early Warren newspapers on microfilm, this purchase having been made possible through the generosity of Duane Wilder.

Another first was the fall meeting of Friends of the Library, when Catherine Butler, chairman of the Weak, Run-Down Men and Women!

There's Positively Nothing Better Than FERRIZAN®

to pick you right up and make you feel that Life is worth living again—when your condition, as is so often the case, is due to need of more essential vitamins, food iron for building up your blood with Iodine for the dutchless glands.

FERRIZAN is a true Reconstructive dietary supplement for those who may so sadly need its benefits. It is especially valuable in simple blood-iron deficiency anemias, which can be manifested by tiredness on exertion, lassitude, an "all-gone" feeling of "no accountness," yes when nothing seems wrong otherwise. Give FERRIZAN a chance to pick you right up, increase your appetite, give you more energy from richer, redder blood. FERRIZAN is sold on a positive Money-Back Agreement if after a 30-day trial, you do not deem it has done real wonders for you.

state committee, was the speaker. In this connection, a spring campaign for funds brought in a substantially larger sum and the total to date is $350.55.

In November, Book Week was marked by the first tea for grade school teachers and, in May, the first joint meeting of the Lake Erie Library and the Northwest Region, Pennsylvania Library Association, was held here.

Another innovation is the program of playground story hours Georgia Spinney is conducting in addition to regular school stations.

Mrs. Lopez pointed out circulation figures show an unusual increase in loans of adult non-fiction, particularly in history and social science fields.

Circulation of library books at Warren General Hospital continues a popular service under the able direction of Mrs. Margaret Lewis and Mrs. Wallace Cowden, and staff members are most appreciative of the fine work being done by these Red Cross Gray Ladies in assuming a responsibility which had become too great for the library to handle directly.

Donations to the Memorial Collection came to a total of over $2100 and through these gifts only is the library able to maintain its high standard in current non-fiction. Almost all such reading matter is purchased from this fund; it is obvious that without Memorial donations the library would face a very serious situation.

Of the $350.25 received in the Friends of the Library campaigns, $160 has been used for a duplicator; the remainder to go for floor painting and curtaining of the large downstairs meeting room. Work in that room has been suspended, however, because of falling plaster and the fall meeting of Friends of the Library will be postponed.

Necessity for repairs, improvement and expansion of the library facilities was stressed and some suggestions made. Designated by Mrs. Lopez as her "dream department," these suggestions are reprinted in full in today's Editorial column in the hope that they will catch the eye of persons interested in making dreams come true.

Of round-the-clock importance to library users, also, are these paragraphs from the librarian's acknowledgements:

"The memorial collection donors are much more important to the success of the library than most of them realize and we are continually thankful to them for providing the opportunity to purchase many essential books."

"...the librarian wishes to express her great appreciation for the work of the library staff. At salaries much lower than those paid by industry or even by the school system, these people continue to serve the public courteously and efficiently. Every member of the present staff has had some form of education beyond the high school level. In addition, they are all reliable, adaptable and experienced. Not once has any member of the staff offered to work less until she earned more. For this harmonious working unit, the librarian is increasingly thankful!"

These lightfooted summer sandals have cloth tops and thick soles for maximum comfort on a hot day. Lounger (upper left) has top in harbour blue, sole in lightweight cork crepe. Espadrilles (lower left) have faded blue denim stripe, cork crepe soles. The tie (above) is bright red, has cork-and-rubber sole to keep feet away from hot pavements and wet grass. The Sham sandal (upper right) has natural-colored straw braid vamp with cornflower blue trim. Another version of the espadrille (lower right) is in solid-color charmeuse, has second set of laces for change-off.

Too Much Leisure Is Blamed For the Boredom Afflicting More People Than Illnesses

By HAL BOYLE

New York (AP) — What is the most widespread disease in the modern world?

A good case might be made for that death in life, that ennui of the spirit, called boredom.

It is the high price modern man pays for having so much leisure he doesn't know what to do with himself. It is peculiarly virulent in civilized nations. Savages aren't so susceptible to the ravages of boredom. They are too busy trying to stay alive.

Many physicians, if pressed, will admit that perhaps one-third of the patients who crowd their waiting rooms are suffering basically from nothing but boredom. They go there hoping the doctor will find something wrong with them, something to give them the excitement of a real worry. But the medical profession so far hasn't been able to concoct a really effective anti-boredom pill.

"You are too tense—you need to relax," such patients often are told. This only encourages them to feel more bored with it all. My theory is it would be better if the doctor said to them:

"You have a bad heart—you may die at any moment."

There is nothing that gets rid of boredom faster than the fear you won't live to enjoy it. More people, weary of living, commit suicide in hotel bedrooms in peace-time than destroy themselves on the battlefields of war.

We do our children wrong in educating them to believe freedom from worry will bring them happiness. A man with nothing to worry about can only do two things—become bored or fall asleep. That is the nature of the critter, and human nature doesn't readily change.

Boredom strikes the very poor as well as the very wealthy. Psychologists have found that the howling bum isn't happy because he has ducked his responsibilities in life. He is even more bored and frustrated than an idle rich man, who has at least one thing left to fret over: He can't take his money with him when he goes.

Most boredom seems to spring from a feeling of lack of accomplishment. The tedious tasks, the routine of the daily rut that wear out the lives of many people in our complicated civilization, give them too small a sense of importance, of being really needed.

A man isn't depressed so much by the fact that he is only a cog in a big machine as by the realization that even as a cog he isn't really essential to the machine. It is easy to get another cog.

The further men get from nature the more they suffer from boredom. They weary their mind by fretting indoors when they should be tiring their muscles outdoors. A man who chops wood for two hours will not only relieve himself of boredom—he will have something to burn in his fireplace.

PASTURES, CROPS HIT BY TOXID WEATHER

Harrisburg—The warmest week in two years and the fifth consecutive week of below normal rainfall in Pennsylvania last week dried up many pastures, hindered growth of late-planted crops, but was good for haymaking on farms of the state.

Following a federal-state weather and crop survey for the week, the State Department of Agriculture said sections of the southwestern part of Pennsylvania received good rains but other areas were dry and some crops suffered. Browned pastures forced many dairy farmers to put their cows on supplemental rations.

Rainfall for the week averaged only half an inch compared with the normal of slightly more than one inch for the period.

Too Much Leisure Blamed For Boredom Afflicting People Than Illnesses

(Form Page Two)

That is the best cure for boredom—to use your energy doing something worthwhile. You can't help but feel better.

I know of one city dweller who solved his boredom by buying a parrot and teaching it to eat spaghetti.

"Everybody said I couldn't do it, but I did," he said. "I never heard of anybody in the world before ever teaching a parrot to eat spaghetti."

Today he is a happy man. The only bored member of his household is the parrot. Unless there is a crowd around watching him eat spaghetti he feels restless and unhappy.

Don't Make Task of Filling Picnic Baskets on Warm Days

By Kathryn Niles

Home Economist
Poultry and Egg National Board
An important figure in summer fun is the picnic basket. When days are warm, the filling of a picnic basket should be made easy. Chicken, turkey and eggs are made-to-order fare whatever the meal and wherever the site. During these picnic months, these foods will be in abundant supply at attractive prices. If you wish to plan a picnic at a moment's notice, perhaps you can buy the chicken, turkey or eggs and other staples en route to your site—then prepare them when you arrive there. For wonderful picnic eating, you will want to choose the plump and meaty all-purpose chicken from 1½ to 4 pounds ready-to-cook weight. Choose turkeys which weigh about 4 pounds ready-to-cook weight for picnics.

Chicken or turkey can, of course, be prepared in advance. Fry them by your favorite method until golden-brown and tender. Then refrigerate to thoroughly chill the meat. When you are ready to pack the picnic basket, wrap the well-chilled pieces in aluminum foil or waxed paper. Individual packages will be easy to handle at the picnic place. If a refrigerated box is not available, wrap these packages in several thicknesses of paper to keep them cold for several hours. If you prefer your chicken and turkey hot, place foil-wrapped packages on a grate over an open fire or camp stove. Heat for about 30 minutes, turning occasionally.

Use Several Chefs

Chicken or turkey broiled or barbecued out-of-doors gives each member of the family a turn at being chef. Transport your uncooked poultry to the picnic site frozen or packed in ice. With bread and butter, pickles, fresh vegetables, a beverage, fruit and perhaps cookies or cake you will have a memorable meal with a minimum of effort.

For barbecuing, choose the lighter weights of chicken or turkey. Remember to pack the ready-to-cook birds frozen or in ice. Dip the chicken in your favorite barbecue sauce, then place above glowing coals either on a grill, spit or wire mesh. If the sauce is thick, dilute it with water to insure slow cooking and browning. Turn pieces frequently, brushing with sauce each time to give as much barbecue flavor as possible. Cook until the skin and meat begin to split. Thirty-five to 60 minutes should be allowed for barbecuing, depending upon the size and thickness of the pieces and the equipment used.

Wrap in Paper

Don't forget the advantages of a savory casserole taken out of the oven piping hot. Wrapped in several thicknesses of heavy paper it will still be at a good serving temperature several hours later. Your family favorites—chicken or turkey with rice or noodles, or scalloped or smothered chicken or turkey—are good choices.

When planning your picnic remember versatile eggs. You may have them hard-cooked, deviled, pickled or as egg salad for sandwiches. Chill the egg salad filling thoroughly in a covered jar and wrap the jar in several thicknesses of paper to keep it cold. If you have tomatoes, lettuce, and other relishes everyone will thrill to make his own "Dagwoods."

Eggs cooked out-of-doors make a delicious meal regardless of the time of day. Fry or scramble them with bacon or sausage. With jelly or preserves, favorite breads, fruit and a beverage you have a wonderfully satisfying meal.

Hark to the call of the outdoors! HAPPY EATING—HAPPY PICNICKING with eggs, chicken and turkey!

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Texture, that all-important word in fabric, means that surface interest has become foremost in fashion. It also means that a basically simple design can gain new interest, since texture, in itself, is sufficiently eye-stopping. This is demonstrated over and over again in simple, classic lines coupled with texture. But texture has other fashion uses. It lends, for instance, the look of one fabric to another. When a wrinkle-resistant finish is added, a new and practical fashion is born. Linen-textured rayon (left) makes a dress that's just right for the cooler days of summer. It has a soft, smooth weave that's been made wrinkle-resistant. Angora trimming outlines the deep, wide U neck. Over this simple sheath goes a cape-sleeved, tassel-trimmed jacket that's not shown here. Textured treebark taffeta (right) makes a simple acetate dress with wide, square-cut neckline and crisp white cuffs. It's the thousands of tiny, irregular pleats that lend this fabric body and give it surface interest.

Canada Has Potential Crude Supply for U. S. in Emergency

By SAM DAWSON

New York (AP)—Enemy submarines could snip this nation's oil lines from Venezuela and the Middle East. And all-out war could strain our oil resources—big and growing as they are.

But Canada reminds us today that she could furnish an ace in the hole—from 100 to 300 billion barrels to the war necessity, lying close to the surface in the tar sands of northeastern Alberta.

That is potential three to nine times as great as the 32 billion barrels of proved oil reserves which the American Petroleum Institute says this nation has.

No Russian sub could reach that a barrel. Extracting the valuable sulphur and processing the crude oil would cost another $1.53. Piping the crude oil to Lake Superior would add $1.02 to the cost—for a total of $3.10 a barrel. Similar oil brings $3.50 a barrel on the American market now. Under Blair's estimates this would be a profit margin of 40 cents.

The Swedish Shale Co. is leasing part of the Alberta government's pilot plant at Bitumont, to see if oil can's reduce these costs by extracting the oil through underground combustion.

Two American firms—Socony-Vacuum and Sun Oil—have leased between them 150,000 acres in Alberta. Another, Shell Oil, has geologists looking the sands over. Ten Canadian oil companies have leased 250,000 acres. This summer the oilmen are core-drilling to find out for sure how much oil is there, and how much overhang of earth is competitive with oil products from conventional oil wells.

A Toronto engineer, S. M. Blair, in a report to the Alberta government says that removing the earth overhang of 50 to 500 feet and getting the tar sands to the processing plant would cost 55 cents to the acre.

Three Americans, 10 Canadian and one Swedish company are starting work this summer to seek a way to produce gasoline and fuel oil economically from this vast deposit and to bring it to the American market at a cost competitive with oil products from conventional oil wells.

Joe Sacco to Face Pete Greco in Kiwanis Club Wrestling Benefit

GRUDGE FIGHT IS PROMISED AS RUTHLESS GRAPPLER AND FORMER OLYMPIC STAR MEET

Joe Sacco, above right, 190 pounds, will meet Pete Greco in the main bout of the Kiwanis-sponsored wrestling show at War Memorial Field next Thursday evening, July 24th. Sacco is probably one of the cleverest and most ruthless wrestlers in the game today. It was his rough and seemingly savage attack on Greco when they last met that provoked a riot at the ringside, and was instrumental in causing the arrest and fining of one of the fans who became so incensed at the tactics employed by Sacco that, when leaving the ring, he broke a chair over Sacco's head.

It must be remembered that fans do not have a license to participate in the matches, and that this show is brought to Warren under the sponsorship of the Warren Kiwanis club for the benefit of their fund for underprivileged children, and should there be any unpleasantness outside the ring, it would directly reflect on the sportsmanship and sense of fair play always so evident in Warren sports followers.

This will be the third bout between these two heavies, each having won one bout to date. It will be a grudge battle. There can be no doubt but these two men have nothing in common, and the ill-feeling stems from professional jealousy. A first billing on a television show went to Greco. Sacco, who was on the same card, objected, and the grudge was on.

When Greco crawled through the ropes Thursday night at Memorial Field, fans will see one of the cleanest wrestlers in the game. Pete started his wrestling career in college, and in 1942 was a member of the American Wrestling Team, representing the United States in the Olympics.

Greco has had a most successful career as a professional wrestler, winning more than 300 bouts, and at the same time he has maintained clean sportsmanship throughout his many appearances. He has met Sacco twice to date, and each have a win. After this second bout, it was discovered that the two principals were really in earnest because of the long-standing feud over the billing on a television wrestling card.

Pete Greco has been matched against Sacco in the final and main bout at Memorial Field Thursday night, July 24th, in the Kiwanis bid to raise funds for the underprivileged children of Warren county.

Wildcats Win Over Oshkosh Indians In Fracas at Sherman

The Ludlow Wildcats staged a sensational 4-3 victory over the Sherman Oshkosh Indians under the arcs at Sherman, N. Y., last night, with Dan Balya of Titusville hurling no-hit ball of 8 1/3 innings. It made it an even dozen victories for the winners against three defeats.

In addition to Balya's fine pitching, Dean Whitaker slammed two home runs for the Cats over a 350 foot fence. Bayla, playing with Ludlow for the first time this season, played with the team last year and has seen plenty of action in semi-pro circuits.

Tonight at 6:30 the Wildcats play host to Kinzua and on Sunday will meet the Pleasantville Merchants at the Park with game time at 3 o'clock.

Big 7th Inning Wins for Phalanx

A seven-run surge in the top of the ninth gave Phalanx softballers a 12 to 5 victory over Youngsville in an originally scheduled seven inning game played at Wilder Field last night.

The win gave the locals a 2-0 record in their three-game series with the persistent out-of-towners.

Batteries for Phalanx were Gail Grinnell on the mound, with John Hanna doing the stopping, and for Youngsville Red Dailey, who was relieved by Bill Unteriner in the fourth, and W. Stephensen catching.

Youngsville, presenting a new team since they played here, took the lead, 4-1, at the end of the first frame. Then in the top of the third, Warren tallied three safeties to Youngsville's one in lower half, and tied it up again in the fourth.

In the fatal ninth, the Phalanx ten batted around the order, Jim Johnson leading the row with a home run.

Score by innings:
Phalanx 103 100 007-12
Youngsville 401 000 000-5

Not the least of these are paper products. There is nothing worse to look forward to after a day out in the open than the idea of a bunch of plates and "eating tools" to wash when you get home.

The answer is in paper. Paper plates, paper cups, paper knives, forks and spoons, paper napkins—these and other items are inexpensive, colorful and convenient. All

Racing Needs Strong Bureau To Protect Horses From Fire

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A grooms and 23 jumpers were lost in an early morning Belmont Park blaze.

No explanation.

Rarely is a reason given for these holocausts. But you can put this down. The principal ones are carelessness and callous indifference.

"I visited the stable area of one of our better tracks, and was stunned when I saw how utterly careless some owners, trainers and grooms were in respect to fire," Mary A. Kamp testifies for The Thoroughbred Record.

"It was nothing to see men go right in the stalls of horses with a lighted cigarette dangling from their lips."

"I saw flimsy extension cords strung about quarters of persons living right alongside horse stalls."

The Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association continues its campaign for safer conditions, further stressing the crying need.

Last available figures show that no fewer than 565 thoroughbreds perished in fires from 1931 through '48. The peak year was '37, when 76 were trapped. Further knocking the total down, there was only one in '41, 62 in '44, 25 in '45, 47 in '46, 17 in '47 and 37 in '48.

TRAGIC configurations that come to mind offhand include the one in 1923 from which Harry F. Sinclair's Rancocas Stud Farm at Jobstown, N. J., then in its formative stage, never recovered. Lost were the stallions, unbeaten Inchcape and Cirrus, a jolting blow to American bloodlines.

Maine Chance Farm lost 23 head at Arlington Park on Kentucky Derby eve, 1946.

Pascoag, which became Lincoln Downs of Rhode Island, was the scene of a spring tragedy that destroyed 33 in '48.

It was that year in which the stallions, Aneroid, Flying Heels, Sgt. Byrne and Kiev, were burned to death at Timberlawn Farm, hard by Lexington, Ky. Attendants had led the first three to safety, but they pulled until the knot slipped and dashed back into the furnace.

A fire break saved half the Belmont Park barn that went up in smoke and a lot more horses than were killed.

Therein lies one solution, but the human factor remains the principal one. Practically all the trouble can be traced to carelessness. Patrols should be doubled, fire laws strictly enforced.
